GERMAN CAVALRY IS RUSHED
CUT OFF FOR ANTWERPBRITISH CRUISER FIRES
ACROSS STEAMER'S BOW OFF PORT OF NEW YORKNorwegian Fruiter Katie Within Mile of Surf Line, Her Captain Declares, While Cruiser Was Barely
Two Miles to Eastward.

A British cruiser, believed to be either the Britannia or the Corona, fired a solid shot across the bows of the Norwegian banana steamer Katie off Scotland lightship to-day when the fruit ship was little more than a mile off the coast and therefore safely within the three-mile limit of American territorial waters.

The officer of the shot at the Katie followed the refusal of Capt. Anderson, her commander, to heed the British captain's order to stop. The Norwegian captain ignored the command because he knew that he was within American waters and that the cruiser's commander had no right to give him such an order.

This direct violation of the sovereignty of American waters, following as it does, after many weeks of practical blockade of the port of New York by British men of war and the halting of scores of merchantmen on the grounds that they may carry contraband, or citizens of the German and Austrian monarchies, it is thought, will become immediately an international "incident" of serious diplomatic moment. Quarantine officials, as soon as they had heard the story of the Katie's skipper, communicated a report of his experiences to Collector of the Port Dudley Field Malone.

This is the second time within a month that the Katie has been stopped by a British cruiser on guard at the gates of New York. On Sept. 25 she was boarded by officers from the Lancaster when she was within the three-mile limit, her captain says. One of the officers signed an entry in the Katie's log admitting the hold-up on the promise that Capt. Anderson would not make a complaint about the violation of the three-mile strip of American territorial waters.

When the Katie put into her berth at Pier No. 11, East River, Capt. Anderson told the following story of his experiences: "I was coming up the coast, hugging the shore all the way to avoid being held up by a British cruiser, as I had been on my previous trip three weeks ago. Just as I passed the buoy off Long Branch, which is a mile from the surf line, fog closed down on us and I slowed down my speed. I kept the same course—close to the coast."

"Second Officer Erickson and I were standing on the bridge together when the fog suddenly lifted and I saw a British converted cruiser, which I took to be either the Corona or the Britannia, standing off against the fog bank. She signalled me to stop and I saw that a launch had put off from her side and was making toward the Katie."

"Since I knew I was within the three-mile limit—the cruiser being too far to the matter of that—I paid no attention to the command and continued on my course. Then they fired at us. The shot struck ahead of me and I saw that a launch had put off from her side and was making toward the Katie."

"I didn't know whether she would slam a shot into my boilers next, but I kept on going and ran into another fog bank. The launch was halfway between the cruiser and the Katie when I lost sight of it. I turned the lightship and came down Ambrose Channel without seeing anything more of the Britisher."

"On Sept. 23 I was almost in the same position as I was to-day, when I was ordered to halt by the British cruiser. Lancaster and boarded by two lieutenants, who came over in a launch filled with armed sailors. I protested when they came aboard that I was within the three-mile limit, but they insisted upon examining my manifest and looking over my crew for Germans. When I told them I must get my perishable cargo to New York dock as soon as possible they agreed to let me go."

SMITH OF BRAVES
BREAKS HIS LEG
SLIDING TO BASELoss of Third Baseman Hurts
Team's Chances in World Series.

BROOKLYN, Oct. 6.—Third Baseman Smith of the Boston Braves broke his right leg while sliding into second base in the first game of the double header with the Brooklyn Dodgers this afternoon.

Schmidt had just singled in the second game. Smith followed suit, and on a throw to third to catch Schmidt, tried to reach second. He made a perfect fade-away slide, crooking his right leg into the bag. Then Cutshaw noticed that Smith could not rise and was apparently in agony. Examination disclosed that his leg had been broken just above the ankle.

An ambulance was summoned at once, while Smith was carried to the clubhouse. The whole Boston team was nearly prostrated at the accident.

"Red" Smith was obtained from the Brooklyn club by the Braves about six weeks ago. He has been of material assistance to Stallings in his pennant race and will be sorely missed in the world's series.

Other physicians said they believed the leg was broken. Smith was taken to St. Mary's Hospital. Ed Rubebach, the Brooklyn pitcher, went with the injured player.

Stallings put Deal in at third. Deal will probably take Smith's place in the world's series.

ARMY-NAVY FOOTBALL GAME DECLARED OFFAbandoned After Conference To-Day Between Secretaries of Two Military Branches.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—The annual football game between teams of the Naval Academy and the Military Academy was abandoned this afternoon by agreement between the Secretary of the Navy and the Secretary of War. This action applies to this year's game and may do away with the contest indefinitely.

Meeting with the two Secretaries were officers representing Annapolis and West Point. It has been hoped that a ten-year agreement might be reached by which games might be played alternately in New York and Philadelphia.

Apparently insuperable obstacles arose, and finally the conference agreed to call off the contest.

CHILD'S HEAD CUT OFF
BY BRONX STREET CAR

Philip Alperowitz, three and a half years old, of No. 321 Crimmins avenue, ran across St. Ann's avenue, three blocks from his home, in front of a street car this afternoon and was knocked down and beheaded by the car.

Into the midst of the big crowd that gathered pushed Mrs. Sarah Alperowitz, the baby's mother. When the newspapers which had been drawn over the body were lifted she fainted and was taken in charge by an ambulance surgeon. The coroner ordered Walsh, the mortician, and Conductor McElroy detained at the Alexander avenue station until the police could make an investigation.

FIERCE FIGHT ON AISNE
ENDS IN A SETBACK
FOR GERMAN FORCEFrench War Office Also Reports Gains
for the Allies North of Soissons, and Declares the Germans Failed in an Attack Near Lassigny.Germans Assume Offensive Again in the Argonne and Along the Meuse,
but Paris Reports They Were Unsuccessful.

PARIS, Oct. 6 [United Press].—That the Germans are moving westward was indicated in to-day's official 3 o'clock statement which announced that German cavalry are now signalled in the vicinity of Lille. Fighting of the most desperate character continues, it is stated in the communique, with practically no real change in the general situation. In the vicinity of Arras it is stated there has been very slight change while the fighting continues with increasing ferocity.

The text of the report follows: "On our left wing the front is extending more and more widely. Very important masses of German cavalry have been reported at Lille, coming from forces of the enemy which are making a movement in the region to the north of the line between Tourcoing [in the Department of Nord, seven miles northeast of Lille] and Armentieres [nine miles northwest of Lille]."

"In the vicinity of Arras and on the right bank of the River Somme, the situation shows little change. Between the Somme and the Oise there have been alternate advances and withdrawals. Near Lassigny the enemy undertook an important attack, which failed."

"On the right bank of the Aisne, north of Soissons, we have, with the cooperation of the British army, made a slight advance. We have also made some progress in the vicinity of Berry-au-Bac."

"There is nothing to report from the rest of the front. "In Belgium, the Belgian forces defending Antwerp have occupied strongly the line between the River Ruhr and the River Nethe. Against this line the attacks of the Germans have failed."

The Germans are now believed to be attempting an encircling movement on their own hook. This is indicated by the presence of German cavalry near Lille. As the main line of the railway that will be used for the relief of Brussels and Antwerp passes through Lille, it is possible the Germans intend to destroy this line.

The Germans are also endeavoring to develop a new offensive on the right of the French centre in the Argonne and also along the Meuse. They are carrying on practically continuous night and day attacks in these sections, but, according to the reports received here, they are sacrificing many men without gaining advantage. They have weakened their centre lines to aid in their movements. They can safely do this because of the natural strength of their positions which would require the sacrifice of many thousands of men if assaulted in a frontal attack. Their positions are admitted by the French commanders in the field to be absolutely impregnable.

The scenes of suffering among the wounded have worked on the nerves of the non-combatants that as far as possible the trains carrying those invalids are moved under cover of darkness. This also has the added advantage of
